MARTLAND GAZETTE,

Containing the Publick Affairs Foreign and Domestick.

THURSDAY, November 9, 1758.

From the LONDON GAZETTE EXTRAORDINARY.

WHITEHALL, August 18.

A Messenger arrived at the Earl of Holderness's Office from the Hague, dated the 15th Instant, with the following Dispatches from his Excellency Mr. Yorke, His Majesty's Minister Plenipotentiary at the Hague.

Hague, August 15, 1758.

My Lord,

I have the honour to acquaint your Lordship, that I received Yesterday Evening, from the Hereditary Prince of Brunswick, Dispatches dated the 12th Instant, from his Camp at Gladbeck, containing the following Particulars:

That on the 10th Instant, in the Morning, the Hereditary Prince marched from his Camp at Gladbeck, with the Troops under his Command, and encamped at Dorsten, with his Right to the Town, and his Left to the Lippe.

That the Enemy, who had Yesterday Morning passed the Lippe at Wesel, and encamped with their Right to the Lippe, and their Left to the Village of Bislich, marched from their Camp at Bislich, and encamped with their Right to the Lippe, and their Left to the Village of Hamminkeln.

That the Hereditary Prince, in order to attack the Enemy, marched from Dorsten, and encamped with his Right to the Lippe, and his Left to the Village of Lembeck.

That the Enemy, upon the Approach of the Hereditary Prince, retired from Hamminkeln, and encamped with their Right to the Lippe, and their Left to the Village of Dingden.

That the Hereditary Prince, in order to attack the Enemy, marched from Lembeck, and encamped with his Right to the Lippe, and his Left to the Village of Hamminkeln.

That the Enemy, upon the Approach of the Hereditary Prince, retired from Dingden, and encamped with their Right to the Lippe, and their Left to the Village of Dingden.

That the Hereditary Prince, in order to attack the Enemy, marched from Hamminkeln, and encamped with his Right to the Lippe, and his Left to the Village of Dingden.

That the Enemy, upon the Approach of the Hereditary Prince, retired from Dingden, and encamped with their Right to the Lippe, and their Left to the Village of Hamminkeln.

That the Hereditary Prince, in order to attack the Enemy, marched from Dingden, and encamped with his Right to the Lippe, and his Left to the Village of Hamminkeln.

That the Enemy, upon the Approach of the Hereditary Prince, retired from Hamminkeln, and encamped with their Right to the Lippe, and their Left to the Village of Hamminkeln.

That the Hereditary Prince, in order to attack the Enemy, marched from Hamminkeln

[illegible] Off that the Loss did not [illegible] this 7,000 Men. That in their Retreat towards Poland they found their Bridges broken down, and that 400 Waggons, going with Provisions for their Camp, were cut off; so that their Situation was still deplorable. These Letters add, that three Princes of Russia are taken Prisoners; and the whole Russian Army was so entirely ruined, that not a single Company was to be found together.

In a Letter from an Officer in the King of Prussia's Army, we have the following List of the killed and wounded.

PRUSSIANS.

2 Generals, 2 Aide de Camp, and 360 Men killed. 1082 Men wounded.

RUSSIANS.

General Brown killed. 18,000 Men killed. 7 General Officers taken Prisoners. 1700 Men Prisoners. 17 Colours and Standards, with 78 Cannon.

The Cash in the Military Chest amounted to 200,000 l. Sterling; a great Number of Waggons, and all their Ammunition taken; the Pursuit lasted three Days, and when the Express came away the Russians were entirely surrounded; and therefore it is judged very few of them will ever return home.

By the last Dutch Mail some of our Turkey Merchants have received Letters from Constantinople, importing that the Turks were just ready for a Rupture with the Russian Empire. Vast Quantities of all Sorts of Ammunition have been embarked on the Black Sea.

Extract of a Letter from Portsmouth, September 7.

"There is a running Report here, that Lord Anson in the Bay has taken three rich Martinico Men, and three French Men of War."

We are informed that the States General have given up the Dispute in Relation to their Vessels carrying French Property, to or from the French Islands in the West-Indies.

His Majesty was pleased to make a Present of 500 l. to the Captains Amherst and Edgecumbe, who jointly brought the News of the taking of Cape Breton; and to order a further Sum to each of those Gentlemen, to purchase a Sword and Ring.

September 22. Two Holland Mails are just arrived, which bring Letters from Liege, advising, that the Prince of Isenbourg, Commander of the Hessian Troops, having received some large Reinforcements, had attacked a Corps of the Army of the Prince de Soubise, and gained a considerable Advantage.

Extract of a Letter from Berlin, August 29.

"To-morrow there will be a Thanksgiving in all our Churches, for the Victory gained by his Majesty over the Russians. General Manteuffel is just arrived at the Head of the Russian Army, that he had under Schwalda, and relieved General Kanitz, in the New Marche; so that now the King's Dominions will soon be delivered of the Russians. This is undoubtedly having left 18,000 Men. The Number of Prisoners increases hourly. On the 25th there were 563 Men killed, and 1682 wounded. In the Number of the first are Major Brandeville, and Le Coulon, Major General of Cavalry, killed at the wrong Cause. Le Schwerin, and Mr. Pappe, the King's Aid de Camp. We have 8 Officers wounded, among whom are the Generals de Forcade, Kalkstein, and Balleu.

Count Dohna continues in Pursuit of the Russians, with another Detachment of 4 or 5000 Men, the Progress of General Lacy, in Lower Lusatia."

Couriers are daily going and coming from the Fleet commanded by Lord Anson, and by the last we hear they are all well.

Private Letters from France say, that all Persons whatsoever are forbid to talk of News, on Pain of being sent to the Bastile.

By the Portuguese Ship arrived at Lisbon from Bengal there is Advice, that Admiral Pocock was well with his Squadron at Madrass the eleventh of March, and expected to be joined by Commodore Stevens every Day.

According to a Letter received at the Hague, from an Officer of Distinction in the Prussian Army, the Russian General Fermer thought the Post he had taken, two Miles from Custrin, inaccessible, having a Mountain on one Side, a Wood on the other, and a Morass in Front. The Prussians made their Assault through the Wood, which they forced with incredible Difficulty, the Russian Infantry making no obstinate Defence. The Palisades once opened, their Cavalry gave Way at the first Attack, and the Field being left unreserved, a dreadful Slaughter ensued.

Sept. 14. It is said that the Instructions to Commodore Lord Howe, and General Elliot, are renewed for six Weeks, and that those Gentlemen will not sail 'till that Time.

Whilst the Russians [illegible] Prussians [illegible] Marshal Soltikoff 18 days, [illegible] Russians. This Information, the Prussians, under General Lassiltz, penetrated into Lower Lusatia, where they plundered and destroyed all the Stores and Magazines, which it is easily to conceive, must be very necessary at this Season, as they have been since driven out by a Detachment from the King's Army, and some Hundreds of them made Prisoners.

As much as this Loss of the Russians appears to be, in this amazing Victory, Part of it was occasioned by an unlucky Mistake of the Horse under General Seydlitz, for distinguishing the Blue Cuirassiers of the Prussian Regiments of Kalkstein and Bevern from the Green, in which the Russian Infantry are cloathed, fired upon them, by which Accident there were a great many killed and wounded. Notice has been given to the Russian Prisoners, that their Countrymen continue their bloody Barbarities in Prussia, Reprisals (however unwillingly) will be made upon them.

Sept. 16. Thursday Night the King was pleased to appoint Major General Amherst to be Commander in Chief of all his Majesty's Forces in North America, and Colonel of the Royal American Regiment. General Abercrombie comes home.

We hear his Majesty has appointed the Hon. Col. Gage to be a Brigadier General in America.

His Majesty's Ship Renown has brought into Portsmouth a French Frigate of 22 Guns.

A Letter from the Prussian Army, on the Frontiers of Poland, dated the 30th ult. has this Paragraph: "By the best Calculations we can make, the Number of the Enemy Slain, in the late Engagement, and since, amounts to between 22 and 23,000 Men. A prodigious Number! but it is not to be wondered at, when I assure you, that the Prussian Cannon were so well served, and the Russians stood their Ground with such Resolution and Firmness for seven or eight Hours together, that whole Lines of them were struck down at once, and lay on the Ground as it were in Rows like Grass that is mowed."

The large Men of War, with the late French Garrison of Louisburg, are arrived at Plymouth.

We have the following Particulars from Berlin, dated September 2, respecting the foregoing Battle, viz.

That, "Most of the Troops which the King carried from Silesia, passed by Frankfort on the Oder on the 28th past, in their Way to Lusatia, where they are already arrived. Each of the common Men had upwards of 200 Rubles [42 l. Sterling] in his Pocket, the King having distributed among the Troops, to reward their Bravery, all the ready Money found upon the Russians, except a certain Sum which he gave to the Inhabitants of Custrin, to enable them to rebuild their Houses.

"That just as the Battle was beginning, the King took a Pair of Colours in his Hands, and addressing himself to his Men, said, 'My Lads, the Honour of your Country, to guard it from that Rum [illegible] depends upon your Courage.' It is easy to conceive what an Effect such a Speech would have upon the Minds of the Soldiers, who burnt with Desire to revenge the Devastation they beheld all round them.

"That the Day before the Battle, the King had intercepted a Courier, dispatched by Count Daun to General Fermer, wherein he told him, 'that the King was marching to him [Fermer] doubtless to attack him, and desired him to be on his Guard against the cunning Enemy, whom he did not sufficiently know, and, rather than fend his Ground, to retreat till he [Daun] should strike the Blow he meditated in Saxony, where he would soon be.' The Day after the Battle, the King sent back the Courier with a Letter written in the same Cypher as the other, and containing these Words: 'You was much in the Right, Marshal, to apprize General Fermer to be on his Guard against the cunning Enemy; and to tell him that he did not know him so well as you did. He stood his Ground, and has been drubbed.'

"That the Death of General Brown is a great Loss to the Russians. It was he who made the Dispositions of the Battle.

"That the broken Remains of the Russians are scampering along the Warta towards Poland. They have no Bridges to pass that River, and our People are still in Pursuit of them. Many Waggons of the Enemy's Baggage are left in the Marshes."

" Grace, Good-Will, and Free Pardon, Confirmed that Corporation, by the Name of, The City of Annapolis, Consisting of a Mayor, Recorder, Six Aldermen, and Ten Common Councill-Men, and By this Charter gave full Power, Authority, Privilege and Authority to the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, and the Five said Common-Council-Men of the City for the Time being, and their Successors for ever, of Seven Citizens and Delegates to every Assembly, for Writs of Writs of Election to be sent to them for that Purpose, which Writs are directed to be filled out and sent to them, and that the Two Delegates by virtue of an Indenture Sealed, should have full and free Votes and Voices in all and every Assembly, as other the Delegates of the Counties have."

Q. Has the Alderman a Right, to Vote under this Charter?

Afterwards a Petition was Presented to Governor Seymour, signed by the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, and Five Under Common-Council-Men, as well as other Inhabitants of the City of Annapolis, Praying, "That now Part of her Majesty's Charter (above recited) Incorporating the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, and Five Under Common-Council-Men, to Elect Two Delegates, might be Enlarged so far as that all Persons being Freeholders in the City (that is to say) all Persons owning a whole Lot of Land with an House Built thereon according to Law, and that all Persons actually residing and Inhabiting in the said City, having a visible Estate of the Value of Twenty Pounds Sterling, and also that all Persons that hereafter shall serve Five Years to any Trade within this City, and shall after the Expiration of their Time be actually House-Keepers and Inhabitants in the same (they first taking the Oath of Free Citizens) may have a free Vote in the Electing Burgesses to serve in Assembly."

Q. Whether this Petition was Presented by those who were the ONLY Electors by the said Charter, to deprive themselves of their Right to Vote; or to Assert the Privilege of Voting extended to the other People, decided in the Petition in Common, with themselves?

Upon this Petition it is then Ordered, "That Counsellor Ogle, and Mr. Speaker, do prepare Instructions for a Bill to be brought in, pursuant to the Petition of the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, and Common-Council-Men of the City of Annapolis, and the Inhabitants thereof, praying, That the Petitioners may be Incorporated, and have the Privileges granted them by Her Majesty's Charter, and that the Bill be brought in by Mr. Speaker, Mr. Dulany, Mr. Bordley, Mr. Ogle, Mr. Bennet, Mr. Hall, Mr. Tasker, Mr. Addison, Mr. Bladen, Mr. Lloyd
